Giclée prints explained

We are delighted to offer a large collection of high quality, limited edition, Giclée prints on canvas and paper of Paul Jackson's original paintings.

Giclée, pronounced "zhee-clay," is a French word meaning "to spray" and refers to the process of spraying ink onto paper or canvas using inkjet technology.

All Paul's original paintings are taken to a specialist art photographer to capture a high-resolution digital file for a perfect reproduction. This is sent to a large-format inkjet printer.

The printer sprays millions of tiny ink droplets onto archival-quality paper or canvas; the resulting print is a high-quality reproduction of the original artwork.

Giclée prints are known for their exceptional detail and clarity. The process allows for precise colour reproduction, capturing the nuances of the original artwork. Archival-quality inks, canvas and paper are used to ensure long term preservation.

We offer Giclée prints on paper and canvas. Print runs are limited to 30.

LIMITED EDITION GICLEE PAPER PRINTS

A2 paper Giclée prints are available framed & unframed. They are printed on beautiful, museum quality Hahnemühle handmade artist's paper. The image is centred on the paper.

Each paper print is numbered, titled and signed by Paul Jackson.

Unframed paper prints are sold in an A2 cellophane envelope with a backing of thick card.

Framed paper prints – we frame these with a wide mount, and a simple wood frame available in 3 colours (white, black and teak). In order to send these safely we use a 'plexiglass' which is a high-quality thick acrylic. It looks just like glass.

Here's examples of framed paper prints. If the image is square, the print will be in a square frame.

Paper prints framed & unframed can be posted to UK, Europe, USA & Canada.

LIMITED EDITION GICLEE CANVAS PRINTS

Our canvas prints are as near to the original painting size as possible and all are framed using a simple tray frame in white, black or teak. Paul uses large scale canvases, so most prints are quite large.

The Giclee printing method perfectly captures the texture & colours of the original.

Each canvas print is issued with a 'certificate of authenticity' signed by the artist, with the title and edition number.

Here are examples of prints on canvas.

Canvas prints can be posted to UK, and some of the smaller ones can also be sent to Europe, USA & Canada.

Once you've ordered your print it's usually about 2.5 weeks for UK delivery.

We've organised the many available prints into 4 categories, hopefully this will make it easier for you to search. Click on the image you're interested in to see the canvas print size.

A1 paper unframed prints are available on request.
